Experience

Project : Web Application
Worked alongside a team to create a web application for a client. Designed the user-interface and programmed filtering logic for SQL database that contained millions of rows of gene variants. Assisted with back-end integration and enabled multi-format data export of filtered results.

Project : Website
Worked with a partner to create a website for a fictional charity. Designed the user-interface utilizing Ruby on Rails framework to create a responsive design that made the website suited for all screen sizes.

Senior Project : Web Application (Ongoing)
Independent project to create a web application. Responsible for designing user-interface, back-end development, testing, and deployment.
